Fees & Funding

2025-2026

london.ac.uk/institute-paris

The University of London Institute in Paris tuition fees for Home students starting the course in 2025 will be £9,535 per year. Fees for International students will be £13,300. The UK Council for International Student Affairs \(UKCISA\) provides guidance on UK Government regulations to determine fee status.

Provided they meet residency eligibility requirements, students can apply for financial support from the Student Loans Company. This includes students from England, Scotland and Northern Ireland but currently not Wales as Student Finance Wales does not fund students for studies taking place entirely abroad.

Students who receive government funding do not have to pay anything up front and the arrangements for repaying Tuition Fee and Maintenance loans are designed to make higher education as affordable as possible. Students will not have to start repaying loans until the April after they graduate and are earning above an income threshold.

UK GOVERNMENT SUPPORT FOR HOME STUDENTS

Tuition fee loan

Students who take out a full tuition fee loan do not pay any fees directly to the University of London Institute in Paris. All eligible students can apply for a full tuition fee loan, it is not means-tested.

Maintenance loan

Maintenance loans help students with their everyday living expenses while studying. Applicants from England will be entitled to up to £12,076 in 2025-2026 depending on their household income. Students from Scotland and Northern Ireland can check their entitlement on the relevant Student Finance websites.

How to apply

All loans are organised by the Student Finance Authority in England, Scotland and Northern Ireland and you should apply via the relevant Student Finance websites:

- Students living in England: www.gov.uk/student-finance
- Students living in Scotland: www.saas.gov.uk
- Students living in Northern Ireland: www.studentfinancenir.co.uk

BURSARIES

We offer bursaries to assist students from the UK with the cost of study. Bursaries do not need to be repaid. The amount received each year will depend on your household income which is assessed during your application for government financial support.

Two levels of bursaries are available:

- Students who come from households with an income of £20,000 or less per year are likely to be eligible for a bursary of £1,700 per academic year.
- Students who come from households with incomes of between £20,001 and £35,000 are likely to be eligible for a bursary of £1000 per academic year.

You do not need to make a separate application for a university bursary. When you apply for student loans, you will be asked to give your consent to share your information with your university. Sponsors/parents who are submitting financial details about themselves will also be asked to give their consent. This will enable us to determine whether you qualify for a bursary.

HOUSING BENEFIT ALLOWANCE (CAF)

The French Government grants housing benefit, administered by the Caisse d'allocations familiales (CAF), to students who pay rent (including for a room in a Hall of residence, a hostel, in a family home or flat-share) provided they have their name on the lease.

Students may find the application process off-putting but “CAF” is well worth applying for as most students are eligible for between 120€ and 220€ per month depending on the type of accommodation. You cannot get housing benefit for the first month's rent and payments will not be backdated if you apply late so make sure you apply promptly after enrolment. The Student Services team will provide detailed guidelines during Induction week to help with the process.

OTHER SOURCES OF FUNDING

Student Bank Accounts

Most high street banks in the UK have special student offers, including an interest-free overdraft. Please note that student accounts in France do not offer this, so make the most of the possibility of borrowing money for free by opening a student account before you leave the UK.

Part-time jobs

Many students get a part-time job to help with their living expenses. This can make a big difference to a student budget and is a great way to develop transferable skills that can help when applying for jobs. You should however limit the number of hours that you work during term-time, so that your studies do not suffer. General guidance is that 15-20 hours per week work is the maximum hours of work that should normally be considered by any student; however care should be taken even with a lower number of hours. It is often recommended that students should limit part-time work to no more than 10 hours per week. Students should also think very carefully about accepting work during unsociable hours (e.g. in late-night bars) as this can have a detrimental effect on attendance and academic performance.

Disabled Student Allowance

If you're a student with a disability, mental-health condition, long-term health condition or learning difference, you can apply for Disabled Students' Allowances (DSAs) through Student Finance. DSAs don't need to be paid back and can help with the extra costs you may have while at university, such as specialist equipment for studying, non-medical helpers, extra travel costs or other costs like photocopying or printer cartridges.
